

The World Topsy-Turvy.

If anybody doubts the absurdity of a demonstrative manifestation of early convictions that may require subsequent revision, he need only peruse the files of the World for the past month, anent Mr. Greeley, who is somewhat of a candidate for the presidency. First it had a jolly good laugh at the joke of a nomination which Cincinnati got off. Next it fairly shook its sides at the mere suggestion that Greeley be adopted at Baltimore. Next it took it seriously as something to be spanked out of existence at once, so it fairly riddled the Philosopher's record, peppering its attacks with threats to its party that should Baltimore adopt there would be a bolt.

The nomination of Hendricks in Indiana brought it to a halt, and since then it has gone the successive stages of admitting that there were some Democrats who really did think of presenting the name; then it thought he might have a few votes; next there was a bare possibility of a majority, and now it thinks he may get a two-third vote. To and to end it all, it intimates that though it don't like it at all, yet after all it isn't going back on Horace.

All this shows the trouble of hasty convictions. Individuality in politics is beginning to be practically of no account. Party organizations allow but little individual opinion, and while there is a possibility that the opinion of the individual may have to give way to the diametrically opposite one of the organization it is best not to be too demonstrative in assertions of positive action.

An Untimely Joke.

Considerable allusion is being made in the papers in regard to Harper's Weekly's illustration of the result of the Geneva arbitration. It gives us a lion, upon whose tail Gen. Grant has planted his boot, fastening the beast to the spot with relentless grip. The lion's countenance denotes the most abject mortification, and huge tears trickle down his mournful nose. Grant is triumphant, while a couple of English ministers display their chagrin in the background.

The chief fault of the joke is its untimeliness. It appeared on the very day that the English Parliament was jubilating over the victory obtained at Geneva over the Americans. The lion, instead of crying over his pinched tail, was a very rampant beast, and roared out a most jolly English hurrah, as if he didn't know he was whipped a bit.

The fact is, three months ago we were crowing over on this side because we had made claims for consequential damages, and now we think we've got the best of the bargain because the arbitration has thrown out these very claims. Now that the smoke of our fire-crackers at the first celebration have about disappeared, we are ready to jubilate again over the fact that we haven't settled anything at all. Especially are we glad that nations can meet once more and settle differences without resort to war, great success being guaranteed to all such enterprises from which are excluded the principal matters in dispute.

In the matter of direct claims it looks as if we might not receive such a very large dividend after all. Our claims for lost shipping are stated to be thirteen millions, while England has twenty millions of burned cotton unpaid for. If we arbitrate a few more times the debt will not go down so fast, neither will the world be so profoundly impressed by the success of such arrangements for postponing disputes.

City Bonds.

The Finance Committee of the City advertise in another column that they will dispose of $25,000 in City Bonds on the 8th inst. The bonds should sell well. The city which issues is a vigorous municipality and is growing every day. Added to this she has a Common Council and Mayor elected on a reform basis, and living up to the platform. They spend no more money than is absolutely necessary, and buy only what is required, and that at the lowest possible price. A city governed in that style should establish good credit, and we expect to see the bonds command a good price.

The Common Council, at its session on Monday night, were struck by a streak of liberality and patriotism when they voted three dollars to all the sextons in the city for ringing the bells on the 4th. They are not quite as original chaps as the time-honored beards are, or as the old Dutch Koster was, but they do love money just as well. Then this little gift will enable them to beget themselves with their crooks to the ice cream saloons to cool their inner parts. Verily, the city fathers are good souls.

Follies of Our Tariff System.

The follies of our tariff system are so numerous that a casual observer picks it to pieces daily. Here is one of them. The tax on type and the material is so high it is prohibitory, hence the government gets no revenue. This raises the price about fifty per cent. We can go over into Canada and buy for a half less than in the States. Yet the type foundries employ only 1,200 men and $1,500,000 capital. To keep them running 50,000 printers must submit to be bled. There is no common sense in it.

Associated Press Dispatches.

BY TELEGRAPH TO DAILY FREEMAN.

CUBA.

HAVANA, July 1. A telegram from Col. Valera dated Havana, June 25th, twenty-two leagues from Guantanamo, says the Fannie has landed a valuable cargo of arms and ammunition; she got aground and is now burning within sight. The expedition consisted of 56 men, and was commanded by Peralto. The expedition landed and attacked the filibusters, killing Peralto and capturing their flags and important correspondence for Céspedes, and five prisoners, (two officers and three privates.) Guided by the prisoners Valera discovered the buried cargo and secured it in good condition. Valera is pursuing the filibusters, and troops have been ordered to the jurisdiction to attempt to cut off the remainder of the party.

THE STOKES CASE.

NEW YORK, July 3. After a recess, George H. Smith, Secretary of the Narragansett Association, who was about to leave the city, was allowed to testify in behalf of the defense, but the evidence proved to have no bearing on the case. Medical testimony was then resumed. Dr. Steele testified that he was present when Dr. Wood was examining the wounds of Col. Fisk. He rallied and seemed to improve for a short time after that. The cause of his death was the shock from the pistol ball wound without reference to the probing or administration of opium.

Dr. Thos. Triple who was also present at the examination, deposed that two ounces of brandy in water was given to the dying man. Death was the result of the shock, and was accelerated by peritonitis from the very beginning. His opinion was, that Fisk would die. Both witnesses were cross examined at great length, but nothing material was elicited. Adjourned.

MICHIGAN DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

DETROIT, Mich. July 2. The Democratic State Convention for the election of delegates to the Baltimore Convention met this morning. H. M. Lusk was chosen temporary chairman. A new State Committee were appointed, the majority of whom are in favor of Greeley. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, that we endorse the principles embodied in the Cincinnati platform.
Resolved, that our Delegates to Baltimore be directed to vote as a unit.

THE COLISEUM.

BOSTON, July 2. The cool weather rendered the attendance upon the concert this P. M. somewhat less a task than on the previous day, and the audience was proportionately more numerous and enthusiastic as their favorite bands appeared in the procession. The Irish Band, which improved in its execution over yesterday, was hour. Madame Peschka, a young girl, sang an aria on the stage more than half an hour. "Martha" with a military band accompaniment, and for an encore sang "The Star Spangled Banner" with magnificent effect. Strauss, the Cornet Quartette and the French Band, which latter gave a selection from "Robert Le Diable" were received with marked demonstrations, and encircled the cornets responding, with "When the Saxifrage Honeysuckle Fly." Madame Peschka, a young girl, received an elegant floral tribute from Newport.

Another concert was given by the French Band to-night.

She testified she had made a foolish bargain. She was so ashamed of it that she did not want to say anything about it to any one, and did not do so for two years.

Albert C. Latham, connected with the bank in which the bonds were deposited, testified as to the transfer of them to Prindle in his name and their continued deposit there in his name.

The Senate to-day voted for the removal of Judge McCunn. The vote stood 28 affirmative, negative, none.

THE GREAT RACE—BASSETT—LONG FELLOW.

LONG BRANCH, July 2.

The great race of to-day was for the Monthcup cup, a dash of 2 1/2 miles, which had twelve nominations of $50 each, play or pay, added to a purse of $1,500; the second to receive $300, and the third $150.

Out of the stakes at the sale of pools, Bassett brought $1,800 and Longfellow $1,000. Subsequently Bassett brought $2,000 and Longfellow $1,200. The excitement was at fever heat.

Longfellow was the winner by 12 lengths. Time 4.54.

But little difficulty was experienced in effecting the start, the horses going away together, Bassett having the inside of the track. For the first half mile they ran head and head, the only advantage, if any, being in favor of Bassett. As the horses were warming into their stride and passed the grand stand, the excitement rose to fever pitch. The first mile and a half found the positions unchanged, but the backers of Bassett evidently had misgivings, as their favorite was doing his best, while it seems Longfellow was still being held in by the rider. Their fears were confirmed when the horses swept past the grand stand. The second time Longfellow's rider gave head to the horse, who gallantly responded and quickly placed two lengths between himself and Bassett. The scene was indescribable. The men threw their hats in the air and cheered wildly, while the ladies waved their handkerchiefs and beat countless pairs of gloves on John Harper's steed. From this moment it was evidently all up with Bassett, and although the driver used the whip and spur until stint, 'twas of no avail, as every moment Longfellow increased his lead, and landed, an easy winner in 4:54, or as some of the judges claim, in 4:53. Bassett was beat by over a dozen lengths. The enthusiasm of western men was unbounded. They crowded around John Harper, cheering and congratulating the old man, who also seemed laboring under great excitement. Immense sums were lost on the race by New Yorkers. John Morrissey was among the heavy losers. To-day's races are acknowledged to be the finest and best conducted of the American turf.

BURNING OF THE FILLIBUSTER STEAMER FANNIE.

NEW YORK, July 2. The editor of the Crónica, the Spanish newspaper in this city, has received the following dispatch from Leaquez, President of Curiculo Espanol de Santiago De Cuba: The steamer Fannie has been burned. All the cargo was captured on shore. Paralta and several others were killed, the rest were all taken prisoners.

Very important correspondence was captured.
